HIGHWAY BODY TO BE NAMED

COUNTY COURT TO ACT TODAY UNDER NEW LAW.

SIXTEEN APPLICANTS

Delegations From Various Sections Appear in Support of Their Candidates.—To Pick Four.

The four members of the new Nodaway county highway commission will be selected by the county court late this afternoon, it was announced at press time this afternoon. There are sixteen applicants for memberships, proposed by their respective communities. In some cases, a community presented two candidates, one a Democrat and the other a Republican, expecting only one to be selected.

The county court was kept busy nearly all day today hearing delegations from various places all over the county in presenting the claims of their communities for a membership on the commission.

Among the candidates proposed are: John O'Day and George L. Felton, Parnell; Frank L. Clayton, George Ballard and Judge J. O. Thompson, Guilford; Howard Bancroft, Clearmont; Lester Staples and Sam A. Jones, Burlington Junction; Newell I. Staples, Lincoln township; R. I. Bilby, Green township; John McMahon, Monroe; Paul Gorsuch, Barnard; Clarence J. Merrigan of Maryville, suggested by Jefferson township residents; William Barry, Green township; Richard New of Polk township; Dr. E. A. Miller, Hopkins.

Several from Barnard appeared before the court to speak for their candidate, Paul Gorsuch. In this delegation were Mr. Gorsuch, Clyde Perkins, Ray Davis, George Cole, Sam J. Smith, Miss Margaret Matson, George Rasco, Fred Stalling, Ed Wohlford, L. W. Mendenhall, Tom Cook, Ottie Burns, Bert Hubbell, Charles Buie and R. T. Smith.

Quitman and Burlington Junction, presenting the claims of R. I. Bilby, Lester Staples and Sam A. Jones, were represented by Ralph Bilby, J. W. Headrick, J. E. Costello, J. W. Stevenson, Bilby, Staples and Jones.

Guilford, proposing either Judge J. O. Thompson, a former member of the county court, Frank L. Clayton or Geo. Ballard, was represented by Carl Wray, Roxie C. Wilson and the Rev. E. L. Rutledge. This committee represented the Business Men's association of that town.

A delegation from Skidmore was composed of Dr. J. E. Pierpoint, M. T. Loucks, John McMahon, M. A. Sewell, Earl McClurg and A. J. Wells. They presented the candidacy of Mr. McMahon. Skidmore feels they should have a member of the commission as they had no state highway running through their township and are farther from a state highway than practically any other township in the county.

The Rev. W. C. Harper, Albert Mutti, Frank New, jr., and B. W. Maham, the Hopkins delegation proposed the name of Dr. E. A. Miller, a brother of Dr. Jesse Miller of Maryville, as a member of the county highway commission.

The county highway commission was created by the last session of the legislature and the law went into effect July 3. Two commissioners will be appointed from each county court district, and not more than two shall be affiliated with the same political party.

Within ten days after appointment, the members of the commission shall meet and organize by electing a member as president and another as secretary.

The commission will locate, lay out, designate, construct and maintain, subject to the approval of the state highway commission a system of county highways, not exceeding 100 miles, by connecting by the most practical route the several centers of population in the county. This county system of roads will be submitted to the state highway commission for its approval. It will build these roads, as funds are available, of a type equivalent to the secondary highways of the state highway system.

The county court will be in session from 9 to 12 o'clock tomorrow at the First National Bank, Burlington Junction, for the purpose of signing up right-of-way deeds for Highway No. 18 that runs through and west of Burlington Junction.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Haggard, who spent the Fourth as the guests of Mr. Haggard's brother, Robert Haggard, and Mrs. Haggard, at Fort Scott, Kan., are expected to return to Maryville tonight.

FOURTH HERE SPENT SANELY

OUTINGS AND SPORTS FEATURE THE DAY IN MARYVILLE.

MANY SEE FIREWORKS

Country Club Grounds and Adjacent Roads Crowded.—Noise-Makers Active as Usual.

The Fourth of July in Maryville yesterday was observed quietly, many persons attending picnics, going to other towns for the day, golfing or fishing. Ideal summer weather was had during the day, the temperature being warm but not too hot.

A number of county residents went to Stanberry and Grant City, where there were celebrations.

In Maryville, the baseball game here between Maryville and Union Star attracted a good crowd.

The Country Club had a big day with golf tournaments, followed by fireworks in the evening, with dancing later at the club house, for the members and their out-of-town guests. The fireworks attracted many persons, the road on the east side of the club grounds being filled with cars in addition to those of members parked inside the grounds. Traffic was jammed and after the display of fireworks, several minutes were required before the cars could get out.

The fireworks at the club were in charge of L. E. Forsyth, L. M. Eek and Dr. E. C. Braniger. It was the most elaborate display seen in Maryville for a number of years.

There were many picnic parties at the Country Club both at noon and in the evening.

Noise-makers were in as great evidence yesterday as they have been the last few years. They started activities at midnight Sunday and kept them up from that time on. Local dealers remained open after midnight and found a ready sale for the firecrackers.

The firing of torpedos and firecrackers was not confined alone to the Fourth.

During Sunday intermittent reports were heard throughout the city, caused by persons who had secured fireworks outside of the city. The police officers were kept busy running down the violators of the "firecracker ordinance."

Only one arrest was made, however. Arthur Cain was arrested by Officer Leo Atherton and, when arraigned before Mayor Garrett was fined $1 and costs for firing a torpedo on Sunday.

Several families around the city had their own displays of fireworks during the evening, yesterday. However, the use of pyrotechnics is said to be considerably less than it was before the "safe and sane Fourth" idea was started a few years ago.

Flags were displayed in the business and residence sections of the town.

Britain Withdraws Troops From China

London, July 5.—The Daily Mail's political correspondent reported today that the British government has ordered the immediate withdrawal from China of a brigade of British troops sent there from India. They will leave as soon as a transport is available, returning to stations in India.

The correspondent said the withdrawal of troops is possible through the augmentation by the United States of its forces in China.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Goforth and Miss Bertha Goforth of Bolckow and Cecil Goforth of St. Joseph spent Sunday in Maryville with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goforth.

3 ACCIDENTS OVER FOURTH

NO FATALITIES IN SMASH-UPS NEAR HERE.

IOWA MAN IS INJURED

Miss Theresa Carstens, Maryville, In Spill, Frank Bailey in Wreck Near St. Joseph.

Northwest Missouri had its share of motor accidents in the heavy traffic on roads in this section yesterday.

S. A. Kepner, of Clarinda, Ia., aged 53 years, was very painfully injured when the car in which he was riding turned over at the corner just east of the John Fox home on Highway 18, between Wilcox and Burlington Junction. Reports stated that a car driven by B. K. Ferguson came from a by-road and struck the car in which Mr. Kepner was riding and which was driven by Mrs. Bessie Thorp of Shenandoah, Ia.

Mr. Kepner's most serious wound was a gash about two inches wide, cut on the posterior surface of his left arm. The gash was cut to the bone, and all the tendons and muscles at that place were completely torn away. He was brought to the St. Francis Hospital and treated. It was necessary for the tendons to be found and fastened together and the arm may be permanently crippled. Mr. Kepner was also cut about the face, over the eye and was rendered unconscious. He is resting fairly well today.

Woman Also Injured.

Mrs. Thorp also received several cuts and bruises about the face, arms, and on her body. Her most serious wound was a two-inch gash on the scalp. She, too, was brought to the St. Francis hospital and treated.

A nearly new car driven by Miss Theresa Carstens of Maryville, turned over in the center of the road coming from Clarinda to Braddyville, Ia. about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was thought that Miss Carstens' car hit some soft dirt in the road, which caused the machine to turn over on its side. The rear wheels were broken and the glass in the car was shattered. A few scratches and bruises were the only casualties. Others in the car with Miss Carstens were Herman Carstens, Mrs. Harry Carstens and two children, Beverly Clarice and Edward Eugene, and Mrs. Harry Carstens' mother, Mrs. Vessie O'Banion.

Crash Near St. Joseph.

A third accident occurred about 1 o'clock last night three or four miles out of St. Joseph on the Maryville pavement when the car which Frank Bailey, who lives five miles east of Skidmore, was driving, went off the pavement into the ditch and turned on its side. The cause of the accident is not known. Five persons suffered lacerations and bruises as a result of the accident. They were: Frank Bailey, Dorothy Bailey, Harold Bailey, near Skidmore; Orville Bailey, son of Clarence Bailey, near Maryville and Hazel Schenkel, daughter of J. F. Schenkel near Maryville. All were taken to the St. Joseph hospital where they were treated. They are now at their homes.

The accident occurred about a mile north of the fork of the highway.

Many rumors were circulated over northwest Missouri Sunday and yesterday regarding accidents which apparently did not occur. One man, reported killed in an accident between Grant City and Redding, Ia., yesterday morning, enjoyed a hearty dinner at Redding at noon yesterday.

Charge a Graham Man With Disturbing Peace

It doesn't pay to disturb the peace of a deputy sheriff.

So Lige Rowlette, living southwest of Graham, found out today, when he was brought to Maryville and charged with disturbing the peace of Frank Burchett.

Rowlette gave a $200 bond for his appearance at the October term of circuit court.

Send Youth to Home for Feeble Minded

Myron Swinford, age 19, will be taken to the home for the feeble minded by Sheriff L. B. Campbell, on an order of the county court, issued today.

The youth was declared to be subject to epileptic attacks and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Swinford, were eager to have their son placed in a state institution where he will be given proper supervision.

Former Resident of Maryville Dies

Funeral Services for William T. Porter Will Be Held at Braddyville At 2 p. m., Thursday.

William T. Porter, Braddyville, Ia., about 51 years old, a member of the Roosevelt Camp of the United Spanish War Veterans here, died yesterday morning in the Veterans' Hospital in Kansas City. He had been in poor health for some time.

Mr. Porter formerly lived in Maryville and at one time was a driver for the fire department here when horse-drawn fire wagons were used.

He was a sergeant in Company E, Fourth Missouri regiment.

Funeral services will be held at Braddyville at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Members of the I. O. O. F. Lodge will be in charge. Members of the Roosevelt Camp here will attend the funeral in a body.

TEACHERS SUE FOR SALARIES

$5,220 IS ASKED OF CONCEPTION JUNCTION DISTRICT.

SCHOOL FIGHT CAUSE

Five Instructors Charge Their Contracts Were Repudiated.—Other Suits Are Filed.

Five suits were instituted in circuit court today against the Consolidated School district of Conception Junction for damages aggregating $5,220. They are brought by teachers who had signed contracts to teach in the school during the 1926-27 term and who allege that their contracts were repudiated, "the doors of the school closed to them," and other teachers hired in their places.

The suits were filed by Judge A. M. Tibbels of Mound City. The petitions set forth a purported contract signed by the teachers for the nine-months school year between themselves and the school board of the district, with the signatures of J. H. Jameson as president of the board of education and Lee Stowell, clerk.

Sara Donaldson claims she was employed to teach in the intermediate grades at $95 a month and asks damages of $855.

Mrs. J. E. Hildebrant contends she was employed as principal at $130 and he is suing for $1,170.

Murl Pilcher states she was employed to teach the primary department for $95 a month and claims $855 damages.

Floyd H. Billingsley alleges he was employed to teach the grammar room for $100 a month and should have $900.

Orville E. Suetterlin states in his petition the board signed a contract with him to be superintendent at a salary of $160 a month, for which he is suing for a total of $1,440.

The suits are the result of a school fight at Conception Junction, during which control of the school board hands. The old board attempted to retain the teachers now suing, while the new board employed a new faculty. Some of the old teachers conducted a private school.

A suit to partition lands left by the late Jacob Brunk, who died May 27, was filed by Viola Duff, Frances E. Clements and Edwin R. Brunk against Joseph S. Brunk, Catherine M. Brunk, widow of Jacob Brunk, The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Association, Nathaniel and Paul Sisson.

A. M. Tibbels brought suit against Charles Lynn Lindsay to partition for sale eighty acres of land four miles east of Hopkins.

OLD DOUGLAS HAS REUNION

AFFAIR HELD AT COLLEGE PARK YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

FORMER PUPILS MEET

Mrs. Ray Stewart Gives History Of School; Jerry, A Former Student, Writes Poem For Occasion.

A reunion of former students of the old Douglas School was held at the college park yesterday afternoon when about fifty persons were present.

The program opened with the singing of "America" followed by a prayer by the Rev. Tom Young of Bedison. Then the audience joined in the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

An interesting history of the old school house, names of those who taught and the vocations pursued by the "students" were given by Mrs. Ray Stewart. Short talks were made by Mamie Kane, Grant McMillen, John Haegen, Charles Riley and Lane Douglas. After the program light refreshments were served.

Those who came from a distance were: John Haegen, Trenton, Neb.; John Kane, Chicago; Mrs. Ellen Riley Oliver and Mrs. Agnes Smith Doran, St. Joseph.

The history which Mrs. Stewart presented at the reunion follows:

Building Erected In 1866.

"July 4, 1776, has gone down in history as the date of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence. July 4, 1927, will go down in history, as the date on which was held the reunion of those who have attended school at the Old Douglas schoolhouse.

This school house was erected under the supervision of Jacob Anderson, a pioneer resident of the district in, as nearly as we have been able to ascertain, the year 1866. Mr. Anderson lived on what is now the James McGinnis farm.

"The first term of school was taught by Adalade Wright, of what is now Roachdale, Ind.; the last term by Ed Douglas in the winter of 1885-86. If it were possible to do so, it would consume too much time to enumerate those who have threaded their way from the door of this old school house into the foremost ranks of the business world. We have, however an incomplete list of those sent out by this old school house into the different professions. This list includes fifteen teachers, four lawyers, one poet, one doctor and two ministers of the Gospel.

"Those who become teachers are: Belle Allen, Bessie Douglas, Jennie Cromwell, Mary Allen, Frank Armstrong, Ed Douglas, Hettie Cromwell, Emma Douglas, Mamie Kane, George Douglas, Will Cromwell, Lane Douglas, Grant McMillen, Ella Harrison, Lizzie Wright.

"Among the lawyers we have: Frank Armstrong of Plattsburg, Mo., who at this time holds the office of Probate Judge in Clinton, county; Will Cromwell of Enid, Okla., who was named First Attorney-General of the territory of Oklahoma; G. W. Partridge, who was at one time Nodaway County circuit clerk 4 year and who took up law later and now is prosecuting attorney at Guthrie, Okla.; and Ed Douglas, who was judge of the courts of Plattsmouth Neb., for two terms and was city attorney at that place at the time of his death, 1920.

"We have one lone poet in the person of Charley Tebow, popularly known as "Jerry."

"Our one doctor is George Douglas of Elmwood, Neb. Our minister are: Tom Young, who for a number of years has preached in various places over the county, and Lane Douglas, who entered the ministry in 1892 and since has held charges in different parts of this state.

"We also have, at least, a partial list of those employed as teachers in the old school house. The list includes: Adalade Wright, John Lowe, Lida Coulter, (uncertain); J. W. Huey, W. M. Wright, W. R. Beaman, Nannie Hampton, Bell Anderson, Ella Redmond, Eliza Silver, Louise Mendenhall, Ernest Day, Ella Harrison, Persis Holmes, A. M. Little, Charley Ware, Cora Huff, George Vaughn, Jennie Cromwell, Enos Stutsman, Lane Douglas, Lulu Leighty, Wm. Chapman, Dora Beyrer, Lizzie Burns, Ed Douglas.

"Jerry," the school's only poet, wrote a poem especially for the reunion. It follows:

In thought I've wandered back again,
To eighteen eighty-four,
Back to the Douglas school house

The article said the letter was still soaked with sea water at the time of its delivery.

CELEBRATION TAKES TOLL

13 DEATHS IN SOUTHWEST, 3 OF THEM IN MISSOURI.

FIVE ARE DROWNED

Western Part of State Contributes Forty to Injured List; Reports of Drinking Few.

Kansas City, July 5.—Thirteen deaths and 100 or more injured was the toll paid by the Southwest to Fourth of July celebrations, according to figures gathered by the United Press today.

Three deaths occurred in Missouri, two in Kansas, four in Oklahoma, three in Texas and one in Nebraska.

The injured list, taking in slight injuries from burns, bruises and light injuries in motor car accidents, mounted hourly as reports continued to come in from small towns in outlying districts in the states.

Five were drowned in the area, six were killed in motor accidents, one racing driver was killed and one man died when a firecracker exploded prematurely.

Western Missouri contributed around forty to the injured list, Kansas thirty-two, Oklahoma between thirty and forty, Texas fifteen, Nebraska more than twenty and Arkansas more than eighteen.

Crowds thronged the highways last night, returning from fishing trips and other outings, and the resultant jams caused many automobiles to crash into ditches.

Scores of fires were reported though most of them were not serious. Omaha reported thirty-two calls answered by the fire department there last night.

Reports of drinking were few. Police officials in the major towns of the area declared the holiday supply was at a minimum and there were few reports of casualties from drinking bad liquor.

St. Louis, July 5.—Three were dead and 353 injured in St. Louis during Fourth of July Celebrations, a check-up here revealed today.

IN DEADLOCK ON CRUISERS

COMMISSION AT NAVAL PARLEY ADJOURNS.

A COMPROMISE FAILS

American Admiral Proposes Increase in Total Tonnage, but British Delegation Stands Pat.

Geneva, July 5.—Naval limitation conferees were confronted with a temporary complete deadlock today.

The technical commission that met to tackle the difficult cruiser situation adjourned after a short meeting at which it developed that none of the delegations had changed its position regarding either cruisers or the few remaining outstanding submarine questions.

During their week-end adjournment, prolonged over yesterday so that Americans could celebrate the Fourth of July, the delegates had been looking forward with concern to today's meeting because of wide divergences regarding cruiser size, armament and total tonnage.

It is authoritively understood that American Admiral Hilary P. Jones, trying to avert the deadlock on cruisers, introduced a compromise proposal at the technical commission meeting Under his plan, it is understood, Great Britain and the United States would be allotted cruisers totaling 400,000 tons, 100,000 more than originally proposed by the United States.

But the British delegation held out for 580,000 tons, and it became necessary to adjourn the meeting so that the heads of the delegations could seek an agreement in informal conferences.

The technical commission this morning had been able to reach only one decision, fixing the size of submarine tubes at 21 inches.

The agreement on classes of submarines, optimistically reported Saturday, had not borne successfully the test of week-end reflection.

Seeing no immediate hope of agreement, the technical commission adjourned without fixing a date for its next meeting. No formal meetings of any kind are expected before Friday, when the executive committee was to meet to see whether progress had been made toward bringing the divergent views nearer to each other.

GRACE PLANE WRECKED BY A FAULTY RUDDER

Aviator Makes Four Attempts to Fly From Honolulu to Mainland—He Escapes Injury.

Barking Sands, Island of Kauai, July 5.—Cruisair, the plane in which Richard Grace hopes to fly from here to the mainland, today rested at the hangar here, almost a total wreck.

After three unsuccessful attempts to leave the ground, Grace got away yesterday, only to be forced to return in a few minutes by a faulty rudder. The plane crashed in attempting to alight on a rough landing place, but Grace escaped injury.

Three times previously Grace had suffered punctures in attempts to take off.

While grace was delayed here by broken propellors, tire trouble and unfavorable weather, United States Army officers, Lieutenants Lester Maitland and Albert Hegenberger, completed a successful flight from the mainland to Hawaii.

Are You Economically Free?

Over 150 years ago a proclamation was issued which contained among other "self evident truths" this statement:

. . . "all experience has shewn that mankind are more disposed to suffar while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed."

Human nature hasn't changed much in a century and a half, and perhaps this bit of philosophy could be studied to advantage by those unfortunate people who are always complaining, "How I wish I could get out of debt!" They realize the foolishness of spending Tomorrow's dollar Today, but they seem incapable of "abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed."

SCOUTS SPEND NIGHT IN OPEN

SITE NEAR ELM GROVE SCHOOL IS SCENE OF OUTING.

A WEEK'S CAMP SOON

Group Here to Join Others in St. Joseph Area on Platte River.—Practice Signal and Craft Work.

At 9 o'clock this morning, a group of eager boys assembled at the Elks Club, and the Maryville Boy Scouts, under the leadership of Harold Braun, set out on an excursion which will last until tomorrow afternoon. John Mutz, scoutmaster, and Chester Lyle, assistant scoutmaster, will join them tonight at the camp, near the Elm Grove school house.

The boys carried their dinner for today and they will cook all other meals meals at the camp. C. E. Barnett of the Nodaway Creamery is furnishing the boys a big feed of ice cream. He estimated the boys would eat about a quart apiece.

The time in camp will be spent in signal and craft work. The overnight hike in a way is a preparation for the area camp which is to be held for seven days, beginning August 8. The camp for the St. Joseph area is to be held at Camp Brinton. Camp Brinton is located two miles southeast of Agency, Mo., on the Platte river. The camp is about fourteen miles from the heart of St. Joseph. Good roads, well marked, lead to the camp by way either of Agency or Willowbrook.

The aim of Camp Brinton is "to provide a profitable and enjoyable outing under such conditions as will strengthen the boy's character, train him in the art of living with others (citizenship training), develop in him the powers of observation and resourcefulness and lead him into a deeper appreciation of and love for God's great outdoors," it is stated.

The camp postoffice will be found in "Berry Lodge." Stamps, postcards and stationery may be purchased there. The camp library will be open during the rest hour. Books from the Public Library of St. Joseph will be loaned to the scouts for their use in leisure hours. Current magazines, approved by the camp director, will be found in all the sleeping cabins and may be read whenever the scouts have time.

One interesting feature about the camp will be the scout bank. The Scout Bank of Trust and Thrift is the banking institution at Camp Brinton. Upon the scouts' arrival at camp, all money will be placed on deposit. Business transactions will be by check only.

Mrs. Ellwood Barrett gave the boys here an appreciated lift when she met them this morning at the Elks Club, loaded all their luggage in her car, and hauled it to the camping grounds.

NULL WINS CLASS B

Clun Price Takes Class C Finals at Country Club.—Miss Edwyna Forsyth Best Putter.

Committee Still Is "Cocky"

Sometime ago the tournament committee of the Country Club issued a challenge to any set of six members of the club of the same business affiliation for a match. So far no challenge has been posted.

Now the tournament committee raised the ante to include any six men who are members of the club. See E. V. Condon, Jack Costello or Ed Dale for full particulars.

Playing twenty-two holes in five hours, while a blistering sun poured down on the Maryville Country Club Golf links, Forrest Gillam yesterday won out over B. E. Costello and captured the championship of the President's tournament.

Costello held an advantage of one hole at the turn, but Gillam had evened the holes when the eighteenth had been played, and it took four more to decide who the champion of the Class A Flight should be.

In the pairings for class A, eighteen men qualified. After the first round was played Paul Jones drew a bye, Dr. H. S. Dowell played Costello, and the latter won one up in ten holes.

O. M. Watkins, who had defeated Ed Dale, was eliminated by Eck, 3 up and 2. Eck beat Jones and Costello defeated Eck, giving him the right to play Gillam in the finals.

In the upper bracket E. V. Condon defeated O. K. Bovard and then lost to Gillam in the semi-finals.

The class B flight was won by B. D. Null, who defeated H. J. Beedle of Ravenwood in the finals. Null went to the finals by defeating I. A. Goodson in the second round, 3 up, while Roy Curfman defaulted to Beedle in the semi-finals.

The class C flight was won by Clun Price. He defeated Dr. Earl Braniger 4 up and 3.

In the ladies' putting tournament yesterday, Miss Edwyna Forsyth was first, Mrs. J. A. Noid and Mrs. Ed Dale tied for second and Mrs. O. R. Toman was fourth.

Stanberry Deposed, Then Regains Lead

For A Day Gentry Tops Northwest Missouri Circuit.—Hopkins Wins And Loses.

Northwest Missouri League Standings.

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Stanberry	8	2	.800
Gentry	7	2	.777
Hopkins	7	3	.700

Maryville	4	6	.400
King City	2	8	.200
Albany	1	9	.100

Stanberry continues to lead the Northwest Missouri League today, having won yesterday at the Stanberry gala day over Albany, 8 to 4. Stanberry was replaced Sunday night from top position by Gentry, but only for one day. The League race is tightening up, Gentry forcing the issue, only a game behind the leaders.

Discussion has been raised again as to a split season and the question will be decided Thursday night at a meeting of the board of managers of the League.

Two teams that have been trailing in the second division—Bethany and Maryville—have shown to better advantage the last two weeks, and are threatening the first division teams as the season advances.

Hopkins won and lost in the Sunday and Fourth of July series. The Nodaway countians traded off Thorburn to King City and he turned in a victory Sunday over Union Star. Hopkins won in a swat fest Sunday over Albany 17 to 12, both teams getting 19 hits. Yesterday the Babe Adams' team turned back the Hopkinsites 5 to 2.

The League is crowing about a victory of Gentry over Grant City yesterday in an exhibition game, Gentry winning 4 to 0. At the formation of the League, Grant City was considered as a possible club, but the Worth countians could not see strong enough competition, so remained out to play golf.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle-bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had sent for him.

Vilak's cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owns a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

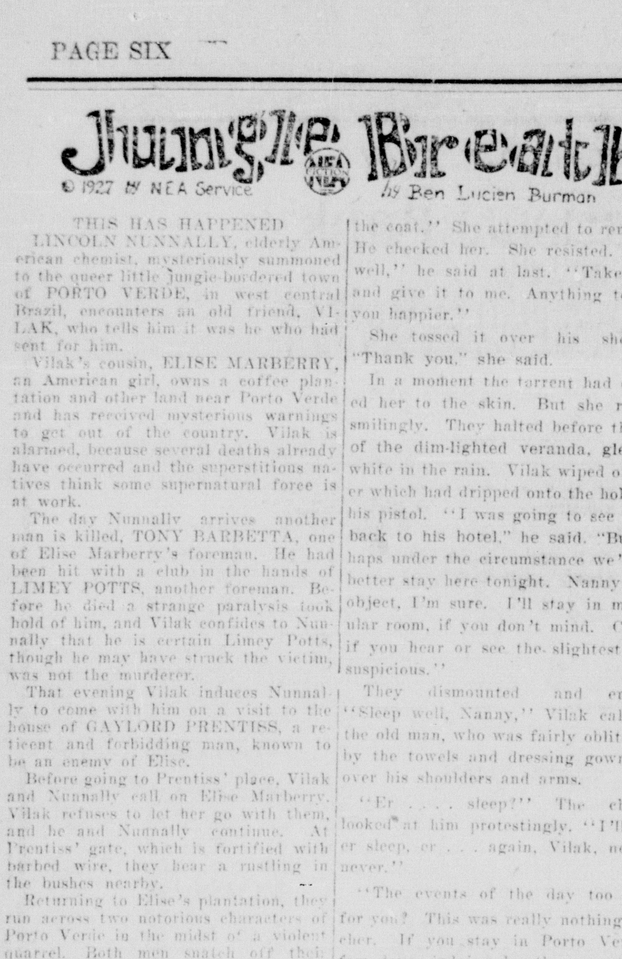
The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foreman. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMEY POTTS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limey Potts, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer.

That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. Vilak refuses to let her go with them, and he and Nunnally continue. At Prentiss' gate, which is fortified with barbed wire, they hear a rustling in the bushes nearby.

Returning to Elise's plantation, they run across two notorious characters of Porto Verde in the midst of a violent quarrel. Both men snatch off their hats and bow politely as Vilak's party approaches.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY



He drew nearer. It was a sheet of paper pinned to the wood with a thin bladed dagger.

CHAPTER XII

Vilak saluted them amiably. "You still look at the moon, Detto, Pasquale?" he queried.

"Si, si, Meester Davis," the chorused eagerly.

"But there is no moon."

They looked at each other in bewilderment, then at Vilak, and grinned sheepishly. "Meester Davis, he likes makka da joke," said Pasquale, the grin making the great gap in his teeth more apparent. "Pasquale and Detto lika make joke, too."

Vilak gazed at the Italians quizzically. "Laugh and grow fat, and live a long time. And sleep, also. . . .at nights, Detto. This also helps to live longer. Much, much longer, Pasquale."

A few moments later they turned into the driveway which led to Elise's house. A light rain began to fall, swiftly becoming a downpour. "Very helpful for a flood," Elise declared as she leaned over in her saddle and with her riding crop struck futively at a cascave the Brazilian rattlesnake, which was wriggling across the gravel. "Well, if the dam must break I hope it does so in the daytime. I'm not at all enthusiastic about being routed out of my bed and riding up to the mountains a la Lady Godiva. Here, here!" she broke off suddenly. "We're volating our agreement. You're making me be feminine in spite of myself. You're getting drenched while I calmly wear your raincoat. Take the blessed thing. You've let me keep it just to humiliate me."

"I don't desire to humiliate you, my charming cousin. But I must insist that in a pouring rain it seems a little more sensible that you keep on the coat." She attempted to remove it. He checked her. She resisted. "Very well," he said at last. "Take it off and give it to me. Anything to make you happier."

She tossed it over his shoulders. "Thank you," she said.

In a moment the tarrent had drenched her to the skin. But she rode on smilingly. They halted before the door of the dim-lighted veranda, gleaming white in the rain. Vilak wiped off water which had dripped onto the holster of his pistol. "I was going to see Nanny back to his hotel," he said. "But perhaps under the circumstance we'd both better stay here tonight. Nanny won't object, I'm sure. I'll stay in my regular room, if you don't mind. Call me if you hear or see the slightest thing suspicious."

They dismounted and entered. "Sleep well, Nanny," Vilak called to the old man, who was fairly obliterated by the towels and dressing gowns put over his shoulders and arms.

"Er . . . . sleep?" The chemist looked at him protestingly. "I'll never sleep, er . . . again, Vilak, no . . . never."

"The events of the day too much for you? This was really nothing, mon cher. If you stay in Porto Verde a few days, judging by the way things appear, I think I can safely promise you a few hours that even a hardened sinner like myself will call exciting. "Don't forget, Elise. Whatever happens that's unusual, call me. No matter how slight or insignificant it may seem. Your life may depend on it. Good night."

Affectionately he watched the old man and the girl disappear into another part of the house. He turned out all the lights except one, a dim hooded candle over the fireplace, and began slowly pacing up and down the brilliant carpet.

The Chinese cast of his eyes became accentuated again; slowly he took out a pellet of betel nut and began chewing it. He walked to a dark corridor, took his raincoat from a hook, put it on, turned off the light in the living room, and went out into the rain.

He directed his steps toward the stone shed where the guns had been kept, flashed his electric torch on the door and the ground about it again, then strode back through the beating rain, and keeping well back into the bushes, made a slow circuit of the house, black and sepulchral except for the lights which marked the bedrooms of his cousin and friend.

He watched in the rain until these two lights went out, then softly made his way to the room always reserved for him. He had arranged it to suit himself and as a room is often an expression of character of the occupant so here the bizarre, exotic side of his had taken full possession.

The draperies were the most vivid his cousin's ample supplies afforded; the furniture was Spanish of the flamboyant type with heavy carving around all the edges; here a monster with a tiny body and a great howling head, there a flatbodied devil stretching out his claws to rend some unseen enemy.

For decoration he had set around idols which his cousin had obtained from the neighboring tribes of Indians and which he had speedily claimed; green idols in the shape of fish, ebony idols in the shape of dogs. Here a mere stick uncouthly carved into some semblance of a man's body showed undoubtful African influence.

One of the rugs on the floor was of a brilliant Mexican pattern, the other an old Spanish weave depicting two knights rescuing a gold-haired maiden from a many-turreted castle of the Moors. Near the window was a gold-striped cot. Bizarre decorations, yet by their very violence composing into a harmonious whole.

Here he stretched out, took his favorite pipe, a Philippine pipe carved in the shape of a clutched hand, and filled it with the curious mixture he used in his cigarets, began to smoke. The room soon filled with the pungent vapor; the air gave place to a purplish haze; the tiny lamp resting on a table seemed shining through a fog. For hours after hour he lay outstretched with the pipe at his lips. The thin film resembling a bird's inner eyelid began to draw over the lower corner of each eye again while the pupils dulled until they appeared the eyes of a mummy rather than a man; his swarthy skin became bloodless; his breath came stertorously through his open mouth.

A murky dawn began to streak the sky. He arose, threw open the window to breathe great gusts of the morning air and began to make a tour of the house again. He had gone around the flower-banked sides and rear without seeing anything unusual and had begun to think that the grounds were exactly as they had been the night before, when on reaching the screened front of the building he saw something white fluttering on the frame of the door.

He drew nearer. It was a sheet of paper, pinned to the wood with a thin bladed dagger. He scanned it intently, then carefully removed the blade and, holding the paper in his hand, for a second time read the single sentence inscribed upon it. It was in Portuguese, written in a scrawled, uneven hand. "Walk once more in the moon and you shall lie forever in the sun."

Vilak thrust the dagger and the letter into his pocket. "Pleasant morning greeting," he muttered to himself. "Intended for Elise undoubtedly."

His eyes roamed quickly over the ground in front of the door and on the single wooden step which led to it. The step was covered with mud, and the soil so cushiony with water that his feet sank uncomfortably at every step. Yet as with the disappearance of the guns there was not the slightest trace of a footprint. He stood pondering a moment, stroking his bony jaw with his thin, long-nailed fingers, then took his horse and rode to the house down the road which he had pointed out to Nunnally the night before.

Here he stripped off his fashionably tailored garments, plunged naked into a nearby brook, put on the modest suit which he wore in the barber shop, ate frugally of some mangoes, filed a piece of steel for some minutes, then made his way to the town.

He spent the day in his usual duties, shaving now the Portuguese proprietor of a neighboring fazenda, now a bronzed trader on his way to sell glass necklaces and other atrocious jewelry to the Indians of the forest, now a young South American dandy who kept him busy for two hours with shampoos and massages.

He had just finished with the latter and was breathing a sigh of relief, when a rider whom he recognized as one of Elise's laborers drew up before the shop and, hastily dismounting, hurried inside. He gave the barber an envelope. "Senhorita Marberry she say take it very fast," he mumbled. "The Senhor Nunnally has sent it."

Vilak tore open the envelope. It contained a brief note which he read at a glance: "Come as quickly as you can without creating suspicion. Something dreadful has happened. Elise needs you—Nunnally."

A new mystery confronts Vilak. Kidnapers have been at work. Read the next chapter.

Pastor Condemns Puzzles in Church

Plymouth, Eng., July 5.—Crossword puzzle enthusiasts and the lipstick brigade were rebuked by the Rev. W. A. Weeks, vicar of St. June's Plymouth, in the current issue of his parish magazine.

"Divine service" he points out, "is not the time for working out crossword puzzles, nor for carrying on a conversation with each other by means of signs or messages scribbled on scraps of paper. Vanity bags might also be left at home.

The Barnard-Pickering game, played at Barnard before the largest crowd of the season, was a hard-hitting, loosely fielding affair. After Barnard had obtained a lead of 10 to 1 in the first three innings, the boys from "Old Xenia" made a game effort to overcome the handicap, but a final five run rally in the ninth inning fell three runs short. Patriotic Service Is Held at Revival Sermon Preceding Night on "Slime Pits" Draws Large Crowd."—Meetings to Close Next Sunday.

A patriotic service was featured last night at the tent revival campaign being conducted by the Methodist Church at Pickering under the leadership of Evangelist H. C. Hankins.

Probably the largest crowds since the opening of the revival were present at the four services Sunday and especially at the night service, when the evangelist preached on "Slime Pits". Swearing, "nasty" stories, Sunday baseball and other forms of "Sunday desecration" were denounced by Evangelist Hankins.

The program for this week follows:

Tuesday night—"Women's Guest Night."

Wednesday night — "Men's Guest Night."

Thursday night — "Young Folks' Guest Night."

Friday—"Lodge Night" for all the lodges in Pickering.

Saturday night—"Family Night."

For next Sunday, the leaders of the congregation are looking forward to services even more successful than the last. A Sunday School rally will be held at 10 a. m., followed by an evangelistic sermon at 11 and a basket dinner on the church lawn at 12:30. A sermon lecture, "The Crown of Life," will be given at 2:30 p. m., and it will be followed by reception of members.

The services at 8 o'clock next Sunday night probably wil close the series of meetings. The Reverend Mr. Hankins will preach on "Almost a Christian."

A free will offering will be received for the evangelist at all three of the Sunday services, and the Rev. H. A. Doughty, pastor of the church, urges a "liberal expression of appreciation of Evangelist Hankins' splendid work in behalf of the whole comunity."

Evangelist Hankins will give a lecture to women only at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. His subject will be "Chickens Come Home to Roost."

S. T. C. Students to St. Joseph Tomorrow

Large Party From Commerce Department Will Visit Several Large Business Concerns.

All commerce students at the State Teachers College are eligible to join a party which will go to St. Joseph tomorrow to visit a number of large firms there and get some first hand information about large business. The students will start about 7:00 a .m. and will spend the day in St. Joseph, returning about 6:30 in the evening. They will visit six firms: one bank, one candy manufacturing plant, two other manufacturing plants, and two wholesale establishments.

The trip is under the direction of L. M. Eek, head of the commerce department at the College, and is being conducted with the aid of the Chamber of Commerce at St. Joseph. H. D. Morrow of the Chamber of Commerce will accompany the delegates over the city. Miss Minnie James of the College faculty also will accompany the students. It is estimated that about fifty or fifty-five students in the commerce department will make the trip.

John S. Boyer has been appointed by the district court of the United States, St. Joseph division, as referee in bankruptcy for Mrs. Miranda C. Livengood of Clearmont.

On June 28, Mrs. Livenwood was adjudged bankrupt and the court set July 16 as the time for creditors to prove their claims. She formerly was in the confectionery business.

Mr. and Mrs. Burl Harris and Miss Gertrude Harris of Council Bluffs, Ia., visited in Parnell and Sheridan over the Fourth.

Dr .and Mrs. W. A. Wiley of Clearmont spent the Fourth in Ridgeway visiting Dr. Wiley's nephew.

Old Douglas Has Reunion

As it was in days of yore.

No artist there displayed his skill
Upon its dingy wall,
But many sculptures left their mark
On desks as I recall.

No paint was ever wasted,
To beautify its looks,
So the inspiration we received
We had to glean from books.

No patent slides or teeters
On that school plot were found,
Dare base, ball and blackman
Were the games the year around.

But the teachers and the pupils
Are those I have in mind,
Who taught and wrought at Douglas,
In the long ago, I find.

Though none in legislative halls
Have made themselves a name,
And none have had their pictures
Hung in the halls of fame.

No outstanding politicians,
Out from that district came,
But good substantial citizens
They all were just the same.

To far corners of the country,
Some have gone since then,
But none that I have heard of,
Have been hung or in the pen.

Lawyers, doctors, preachers,
Have graduated there,
And teachers by the dozen,
Are scattered everywhere.

Many bachelors have not married
Though we all think they ought,
There's many of those maidens
That Cupid never caught.

The old land mark has been removed,
No trace of it remains,
Yet I can close my eyes and see
Those desks and broken panes.

And in my day dreams often,
I fancy I can see
The faces of the dear ones
Who went to school with me.

A few of my old school mates
Have since then passed away,
And those of us who still remain
Have tresses streaked with gray.

Woodhull Is Speaker at College Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. met in its regular session at the State Teachers College this morning during the activity hour. Orval Adams presided at a short business meeting, after which he introduced Clifford Evans as leader. The devotions were led by I. V. Graff. Carl Morrison played a flute solo, "The Mocking Bird." This was followed by a short address by the Rev. W. S. Woodhull.

The Reverend Mr. Woodhull spoke on "The Grace of Indignation." "It is right to get angry at times, but I have often mistaken the time," he quoted. He pointed out that evil men, evil attitude, and other evil things cannot be overcome by half-hearted men," adding: "Men need to take a definite attitude of indignation against such things."

CLOSING GRAIN REVIEW.

Chicago, July 5.—Bear sentiment seemed to be the ruling power in the wheat pit today in view of excellent weather conditions in all parts of the belt, movement of new grain to market in the Southwest and excellent spring wheat conditions in the Northwest.

A report on the world's visible supply of wheat today showed a small decrease, but this was overbalanced by the good crop and weather conditions in this country. The cash market was 1 cent lower.

Corn opened lower with wheat, but later recovered slightly when experts reported that in spite of warm days favorable to the new crop the cool nights were undoing the work and prospects for a new crop were not much better. The cash market was unchanged to ½ cent higher.

Oats trading showed little change from recent desultory business and the grain was inclined to follow the trend of wheat. The cash market was ½ cent lower.

Provisions were featurless and unchanged.

WOMEN CAN NOW DO MORE

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Keeps Them Well

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 500 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

COMETS LOSE ONE, WIN ONE

THE VICTORY COMES AT HOME, SO IT'S ALL RIGHT.

UNION STAR IS EASY

Final Score Here Is 8 to 1, With Lewis Winning Moundsman.—Umpire Abdicates At Gentry.

Maryville's baseball playing Comets split the Sunday and Fourth of July games, losing to Gentry there, 8 to 10, and defeating Union Star here yesterday, 8 to 1.

What is hard to understand is how Union Star has fooled so many teams in the League with Holland on the mound. He was hit hard here yesterday, did not have any speed or change of pace—just a wide curve.

The Maryville players zipped the ball to and through the infielders time after time, and it won the game—as high flies yesterday did no good with a strong wind to the southeast.

Along about the sixth inning Sellers whispered in the Comets' ears, "Hit 'er to Garrett." Garrett is the Union Star second baseman. And the result was run after run as the lad became confused at the number of chances offered him.

Nevertheless it was a mighty fine game against Union Star—up until the sixth inning. In this frame, P. Tobin went out at second to first. Arthur got on first on Garrett's error. Schultz walked and Search biffed out a hot drive, Arthur getting caught on third. Union Star juggled the ball around, trying the "hidden ball" stunt, and as the shortstop heaved it to second to catch Schultz he made a bad throw and the runner went to third.

Such foolishness seemed to disrupt the Union Star team play and then it was "bobble, bobble, bobble.". Before it was over, the Comets had scored three runs. Then they began to "find" Holland, and before the game's end had compiled a total of eight bingles. They collected five more runs in the eighth.

Caywood in the seventh speared a hot line drive that appeared likely to go for a hit.

Smilin' Lefty Lewis smiled his way through the entire game and as a sort of courtesy, allowed a run in the last frame.

The Gentry Game.

The Comets came home from Gentry Sunday night, feeling that "if a team has to win 'anyway to win,' let's get out of the League."

Maryville had Gentry beaten 7 to 4 at the first of the fifth inning. They took along dependable Claude Wilson for umpire. In the last of the fifth, Wilson withdrew, stating he would not call another ball after a statement made to him by Luke Summa. The game is being protested.

The brand of ball displayed by the Comets yesterday causes one to wonder why the Maryville team is so far down in the percentage column. With victories over Stanberry a week ago and Union Star yesterday, local fans may expect a gradual rise in the league standing of the Comets henceforth.

Pigeon Racing Is Latest in England

Newly Developed Sport Arouses Great Enthusiasm.—Birds Undefeated By Storms.

London, July 5.—Pigeon racing is attracting great numbers of new enthusiasts to its ranks, the range from miners to baronets.

The season recently opened with the annual race held at Grantham, where 50,000 birds were released. Three special trains were chartered to transport the birds from the towns of Newcastle-on-Tyne, South Shields and Durham.

The enthusiasm this sport is arousing was recently illustrated in a series of races, when 150 federations entered 1,000,000, and in another series 80,000 birds raced into London.

One reason for the popularity of pigeon racing is its purely sporting nature, and the fact that there is little or no money to be made in this game. Great excitement is provided clocking the time the oposing birds take to complete the course.

Great endurance is shown by the birds who, with a following wind, can fly 60 miles an hour, while their homing instincts makes them superior to almost any weather. If a storm should arise they drop to the ground and wait for it to blow over.

A race in which 6,000 pigeons were competing last year illustrates this point. They were overtaken by a heavy storm, and although some of the birds never reached their home lofts, the majority did so, arriving at their destination at intervals for a week after they were due.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Torrance and daughters, Leola, Florene and Wilma, of Guilford, and Miss Mamie Torrance of Maryville, visited over Sunday in Independence, Mo., at the home of their daughter and sister, Mrs. Roy L. Roberts, and Mr. Roberts. They returned to Guilford yesterday evening.
